INDEPENDENCE MAN CHARGED IN BANK ROBBERY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Todd P. Graves, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri, announced that an Independence, Mo., man was charged today with robbing the Bank of America in Raytown, Mo., on Monday.

John L. Heavner, 49, of Independence, was charged with robbing the Bank of America in a federal criminal complaint filed this afternoon in U.S. District Court in Kansas City.

According to an affidavit filed in support of the criminal complaint, Heavner entered the Bank of America at 10017 E. 63rd St. in Raytown on Oct. 17, 2005. Heavner allegedly entered the bank and approached an employee seated at her desk, telling her that he wanted to open an account. When asked if he could produce identification, the affidavit says, Heavner responded, “No, but I can produce a gun. I want your money.” The employee allegedly told a Heavner that she was not a teller and didn’t have any money, then she accompanied him to a teller window and relayed his demand for money. The teller handed Heavner $797, the affidavit says, and Heavner left the bank.

According to the affidavit, a Raytown police officer later recognized Heavner from the bank surveillance photos taken during the robbery.

Graves cautioned that the charge contained in the complaint is simply an accusation, and not evidence of guilt. Evidence supporting the charge must be presented to a federal trial jury, whose duty is to determine guilt or innocence.

This case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney K. Michael Warner. It was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Raytown, Mo., Police Department.
